

Suspicious E-mail Messages Purporting to be from Our Company and Our Company's Representative

Recently, in Canada and the US, it has been confirmed that e-mail messages purporting to be from our company and our company's representative have been sent out to a large and indefinite number of people, pretending to recruit people as representatives in carrying out operations such as the receiving and wiring of money paid from our clients to our company and asking them to provide personal information or to enter an agreement. The names of our company and our representative are used in the e-mail addresses of these messages, and the contents of these messages invite the recipients to reply to the sender.

Our company is not recruiting representatives such as the above, and these e-mail messages have no connection with our company.

In the case that you receive such e-mail messages, please be careful not to reply to them.
